Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 18 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A mixture of showers and sunny spells again, possible thunder.

Today:
Another day of sunny spells and scattered showers, these developing quickly through the morning, some possibly heavy and thundery, with a risk of hail. Similar conditions to recently, but breezy. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Any remaining showers gradually ease through the evening, clearing into the night. Skies remain largely clear overnight, with just a few isolated showers across the region. Feeling chilly. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Wednesday:
Through the morning, showers develop quickly across the region, less frequent than recently, but still possibly heavy and thunderous. Turning largely dry later, and remaining so overnight. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Persistent rain on Thursday arriving from the west, with strong winds. Staying wet on Friday, with a risk of thunder. Further scattered showers and sunny spells on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.